Fondata nel 2005 dall'Università degli Studi "Guglielmo Marconi" GUIDE conta oggi ben 140 membri, tra università e centri di ricerca, rappresentanti oltre 60 Paesi, uniti dal comune obiettivo di sviluppare e supportare la cooperazione internazionale e il settore dell'educazione aperta e a distanza. Attraverso il rafforzamento del ruolo degli istituti di educazione superiore, considerati creatori di innovazione e sviluppo, GUIDE promuove la diffusione di risultati di ricerca e "buone pratiche" con l'obiettivo di favorire la collaborazione con i diversi stakeholder di settore e la creazione di partnership strategiche a livello internazionale. Segue dettagliata descrizione in lingua inglese: GUIDE Association - Global Universities In Distance Education arises from the need of worldwide Universities to develop and support, in a flexible manner, the distance learning sector by promoting cooperation and research, while respecting the cultural specificity of each member. The Association was founded in 2005 by the Marconi University and officially launched during the first international conference in February 2006, having the significant title Towards the development of Common Platform for Global Cooperation. Nowadays the Association has reached a global dimension with more than 140 members Universities coming from all over the world. All the members work together to realize a global cooperation model for every university and institution linked to the e-learning and distance education sector. Mission and Objectives The GUIDEs mission is to promote excellence in research, development and use of e-learning by providing networking and exchange opportunities among universities and educational institutions, funding agencies, public and private bodies and the business sector. The Association disseminates, especially through its official magazines FormaMente and Digital Universities: International Best Practices and Applications, the results of researches about the latest trends in online education and digital technologies application, also sharing and promoting e-learning policies, procedures and practices In order to facilitate and encourage dialogue and interaction among the members, GUIDE Association carries out the following activities: - Development of International Partnerships - Drawing up of proposals and projects to be financed by the European Commission or other international organizations - Organization of worldwide conferences on the latest trends in e-learning and educational technologies - Official bimonthly Newsletter - Release of international research studies and publication - Publication of the Associations scientific journals FormaMente and Digital Universities: International Best Practices and Applications GUIDE QUALITY OBSERVATORY GUIDE Quality Observatory is an initiative of the GUIDE Association which aims to connect the communities of policy makers, practitioners, developers, managers, end-users and all stakeholders committed to find a suitable and innovative approach to quality in technology-mediated education. The Observatory is a response to the growing international demand of advancing a culture of quality within institutions in a continuous quest for improvement and excellence. In this respect GUIDE Observatory intends to analyze international practices and principles for quality in e-learning dealing with existing standards, methodologies and accreditation mechanisms implemented by HEIs worldwide. It gives the opportunity to participate in major international research and development projects and to access a range of specific tools and services for benchmarking and analyzing local, national and regional programs. The International GUIDE Conferences aim at encouraging cooperation between the member universities, providing fruitful exchange opportunities on global research issues. The Regional Workshops, focused on specific themes according to the different geographical area needs, intends to improve the professional interaction among Regional Representatives, members and local communities. Here below there is a list of the main initiatives and events organized by the Association: X International GUIDE Conference Optimizing Higher Education for the Professional Student: A balance of flexibility, quality and cultural sensitivity September 16-18, 2015 University of Applied Sciences Technikum Wien, Vienna (Austria) IX International GUIDE Conference, Online Education and Society: The Challenges of the Digital Era May 7-8, 2015 Universidad del Salvador, Buenos Aires (Argentina) VIII International GUIDE Conference and V Symposium on Education and Communication Science and Technology, Management and Quality: the future of distance education in Brazil and around the world November 19-21, 2014 University of Tiradentes UNIT, Aracaju (Brazil) Download the Conference Proceedings VII International GUIDE Conference 2014 Cultural Identity in the Midst of Global Modernization: The Role of Distance Education April 10-11, 2014 Universidad Panamericana, Guatemala City (Guatemala) Download the Conference Proceedings VI International GUIDE Conference 2013 The Global Economic Crisis and Its Consequences on the National Educational Systems October 3-4, 2013 Megaron Athens International Conference Center, Athens (Greece) Download the Conference Proceedings V International GUIDE Conference 2011 E-learning innovative models for the integration of education, technology and research November 18-19, 2011 Università degli Studi Guglielmo Marconi, Rome (Italy) Download the Conference Proceedings GUIDE International Seminar on Virtual Higher Education October 14-15, 2010 UNISUL, Florianópolis-SC (Brazil) III International GUIDE Conference 2010 New challenges for e-learning in cultural, scientific and socio-economic development March 18-19, 2010 Università degli Studi Guglielmo Marconi, Rome (Italy) Download the Conference Proceedings II International GUIDE Conference 2008 E-learning and Multicultural Education: Digital Divide and Digital Opportunities May 15-16, 2008 Università degli Studi Guglielmo Marconi, Rome (Italy) Download the Conference Proceedings Thematic Workshop African and Middle-Eastern Area Sustainable development of learning systems in Africa and Middle-East through
